SUBJECT: Barton Duvall Joins Inter-Aero General Aviation Division

International Aerospace Insurance Services, Inc. (Inter-Aero) is dedicated to providing expert underwriting knowledge and premier service to the General Aviation Insurance marketplace. To further achieve this goal, we are pleased to announce that Barton Duvall has been hired to enhance our General Aviation underwriting team.

Our short and long-term objectives are to make sure we have the best possible people in place to transact business. We are delighted that we are able to attract a talented individual like Barton. We are confident he will be an asset for our numerous brokers and clients.

Barton is a cum laude graduate of Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University where he achieved a Bachelor of Science degree in Aviation Business Management. He has experience both as an underwriter and as a broker. Prior to joining Inter-Aero, Barton was an aviation underwriter for AIG Aviation, evaluating most segments of the market. In addition, he was a broker in Marsh's Aviation division, handling a cross-section of General Aviation and Aerospace Products.

Barton will be responsible for underwriting all risks pertaining to Inter-Aero's General Aviation portfolio of accounts. He will begin work on July 20, 2009. In carrying out his duties, he will report to Chuck Groel. He will work closely with the current General Aviation team of Peter Barnes, Ann Thickey, Matt Varca, Nicole Birmingham, and Christina Symonds.
